SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CALIF., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1920.

NO. 52

S. P. WANTS TO CHANGE ITS YD. LIMIT

RECENT VICTORY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO CHAMBER IN "RATE CASE" MOVES RD. TO ASK SWITCHING CHANGES.

The Southern Pacific filed with the Railroad Commission Wednesday an application to change the switching limits for the handling of intrayard traffic at San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles. The application was filed in compliance with an order issued by the commission in October, 1920, whereby the Southern Pacific Company was ordered to remove certain discriminations existing between San Francisco and South San Francisco, as compared with intrayard switching charges assessed at San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles.

By the order the Southern Pacific was required to place South San Francisco within the San Francisco switching limits and apply all of the San Francisco line haul rates to South San Francisco. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway and the Western Pacific were at the same time ordered to absorb the Southern Pacific Company's switching charge between San Francisco and South San Francisco in connection with competitive line haul traffic.

By the adjustment proposed by the Southern Pacific Company the intrayard switching charge between South San Francisco and San Francisco will be reduced from 80 cents to 70 cents per ton and the minimum charge from $15 to $12. The company also proposes to cancel the present rate of 37½ cents, now applying between San Francisco and South San Francisco on traffic delivered to the State Belt Railroad when destined to points beyond by water craft, and increase this charge from 37½ cents to 70 cents per ton.

At Oakland the present intrayard switching limits extend from Oakland wharf to Elmhurst. It is proposed to divide this zone into two parts, leaving the 37½ cents as the charge between Oakland wharf and Fiftieth avenue and increasing the charge east of Fiftieth avenue to and including Elmhurst to 70 cents per ton. Other slight changes are also proposed.

At Los Angeles the rate is now 37½ cents per ton on all points within the switching limits. It is proposed to make two switching limits at Los Angeles, and at points in the outer zone to increase the rate from 37½ cents to 70 cents per ton.

Hearings will be held on the application before Commissioner H. D. Loveland at San Francisco, December 20, 1920, and at Los Angeles, December 30, 1920.

REV. D. STEVENS AT TOPEKA, KAN.

Rev. Daniel Stevens of South San Francisco, who recently disappeared from this city under circumstances that made his many friends fearful that he had met with foul play, has communicated with Dr. George White, district superintendent of the Methodist Church, from Topeka, Kan., and conveyed to him his resignation from the local charge. This resignation, Dr. White has stated, will be accepted.

The Rev. Mr. Stevens' disappearance is one of the most mysterious affairs that has occurred in this city for a long time. The young minister was held in high esteem here, not only by members of his church but by all who knew him. Not the slightest reason is known why he should have left this city, and those conversant with the circumstances of his leaving are the most mystified of all. His accounts are in perfect order and no shadow of doubtful transactions of any kind are to be found concerning the man. The most feasible theory is that he is suffering from temporary mental derangement. A fact that lends color to this theory is that for four or five months past Mr. Stevens has suffered intensely from abscesses of the head and neck, and

WANTS WOMEN TO BE C. OF C. MEMBERS

Anonymous Communication Addressed to Chamber of Commerce Urges Women Members Taken.

Some woman desires that women join the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. This developed at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Chamber, when a letter was read which had been handed in by a woman resident of the city, suggesting that women be allowed to become members. As the communication was anonymous no reply could be made, but it was pointed out in the meeting that there was nothing in the constitution or by-laws of the Chamber to prevent as many women as wished to do so joining. There was also every assurance given that the women would be welcomed if they cared to become members.

A communication was received from Watson & Co. of San Francisco, thanking the Chamber for the cordial reception recently given H. H. Van Loan and G. R. Mohr of this company at a Chamber meeting.

The matter of poor street car service in South San Francisco was again brought up at this meeting. This matter has been productive of much discussion at Chamber meetings and several attempts have been made to persuade the street car company to give better service here. It was decided that the standing committee on this matter would co-operate with the committee from the city trustees recently appointed to take steps looking toward better service.

It was brought before the gathering that the business at the office recently opened here by the Western Union Telegraph Company was not as good as the company had been led to expect. W. H. Coffinberry, P. R. Thompson, and Secretary H. E. Smith were appointed on a committee to interview the heads of the industrial plants with the end in view of getting more business for this office.

Dr. J. C. McGovern addressed the Chamber, telling of the New Year's eve celebration planned for this city. Some of the features of the proposed evening's festivity were brought out and all Chamber members urged to make their plans to celebrate New Year's eve in this city.

The fact that two city ordinances recently passed are being constantly violated was brought up. The two are the curfew ordinance, requiring that all children be off the streets after 9 o'clock, and the livestock ordinance, which requires the owner of livestock to either keep them in an inclosure or, where they are picketed out to graze, to get the permission of the owner of vacant lots before using such lots for grazing purposes. The secretary was instructed to communicate with the city trustees and call their attention to the fact that these two ordinances are not being enforced.

CAME WEST TO CHRISTEN THE BATTLESHIP OMAHA

Mrs. Victor White and daughter, Miss Louise Bushnell White, of Omaha, Neb., were recent guests at the W. J. Martin home. Miss White was chosen to christen the battleship Omaha at Tacoma December 14th. Miss White is a descendant of Bushnell, who invented the submarine in 1778.

Because of a mistake in the launching date Mrs. and Miss White reached the coast several days before the launching and the navy sent them to the Palace Hotel as its guests. Mrs. White is a sister of Mrs. Jordan, who is a guest at the Martin home.

..... the day he left complained to a friend of severe pains through his head. Mr. Stevens was to have been married Christmas eve, but his fiancée was left as much in ignorance of his whereabouts or of his intention to leave as were his mother and his host of friends in South San Francisco. He had already rented a house here to which he was to bring his bride.

As near as can be learned, Mr. Stevens was last seen in this region Monday of last week. Mrs. A. Stevens, his mother, has also heard from him at Topeka. In neither communication did he give any reason for his leaving.

Arrangements have been made for the supplying temporarily of the Methodist church pulpit and services will be held as usual.

NEWLY REORGANIZED CHAMBER ENTERS NEW ERA OF USEFULNESS

Probably no event in the affairs of the last two weeks in South San Francisco is deserving of more prominence than the shaping into real business aspects of the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. H. E. Smith of Los Angeles, an experienced man at such work, began his duties in charge of the Chamber December 1st, and during the last few days a force of men under his direction have been engaged in arranging the exhibits in the new Chamber headquarters in shipshape. These exhibits consist of a large collection of oil paintings of South San Francisco industrial scenes. This collection originally cost over $2000 and has been a prominent feature in various exhibits in San Francisco and elsewhere. From time to time the industrial plants of the city will install collections of their own products in the Chamber headquarters. As a result of this, visitors will by a few moments of study grasp in a practical way the business production and possibilities of the community.

The industrial aspects of a community is the first item to be investigated by a manufacturer seeking a location for a factory. If he uses steel in his industrial operations, the fact that steel is manufactured in South San Francisco will at once attract his attention and the economic advantage to him of a location near a steel mill will appeal to him strongly. The same is true of businesses allied with the other big industries located in this city.

The prospective factory builder usually opens negotiations by writing to the Chamber of Commerce of the town he is interested in. In all probability he will next visit that Chamber for confirmation of its representations. A splendid office containing exhibits of actual articles manufactured in the town, together with stores of reliable statistics and information, will carry more weight than any possible argument and invariably results in a close study of every detail of advantage to that manufacturer.

No agency for boosting and developing a growing city is more potential than its Chamber of Commerce, and if that organization has the hearty support of the community there is created a power station that guarantees the bright future of that community. A Chamber thus supported becomes a municipal power representing all the people of the city and can be appealed to on any matter of public moment.

The newly reorganized South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce has entered auspiciously upon a new era of usefulness. Its continued success, usefulness, and efficiency depend on two things: good executive management and the financial support of the business interest of the town. The public is invited to visit the new Chamber headquarters at the city hall and become acquainted with the manager, Mr. Smith, and with the working of the organization. Every resident of the town owes this to himself or herself. If the Chamber gets the support indicated it will return a big interest to the city on every dollar invested.

PLEASANT AFFAIR IS GIVEN AT GUILD HALL

Get-Together Supper Monday Night Draws Large Gathering.

One of the pleasantest social affairs that has taken place in South San Francisco for a long time was the "Get-Together" supper given at Guild Hall Monday night. The supper was attended by about fifty men and women, members of Grace Episcopal Church and their friends. The supper was furnished and served by the members of the Ladies' Guild, under President Mrs. George Britton. After the supper short talks were given by City Trustee F. A. Cunningham, the Rev. Mr. Moore of the Episcopal cathedral staff; Mrs. W. R. Waelte, former president of the guild; Robert Speed; J. Warren, recently returned from fifteen months with the American troops in Siberia, and Fred T. Foster of San Francisco. Rev. E. Molony acted as toastmaster. After the speaking the tables were cleared away and a most pleasant evening spent in conversation and social intercourse before a crackling fire in the big fireplace. During the latter part of the evening J. G. Walker rendered a vocal solo and Miss Emma Johnson several instrumental selections. The company also indulged in several old-time favorite songs.

A number of regrets were received and read during the evening. Among them was one from the Rev. Leslie C. Kelley, who built the vicarage, and one from the Rev. J. Weigle, who built the Guild Hall.

W. H. DINNING IS NEW SO. S. F. SCHOOL TRUSTEE

W. H. Dinning, manager of the South City Lumber and Supply Company, is now a member of the local school board. His appointment was made by County Superintendent of Schools Roy Cloud, following the resignation of E. N. Brown, who moved to Mountain View. Mr. Brown was a member of the school board for nine years.

CANDY SALE SUCCESSFUL.

The candy sale held by the high school students at the high school last week proved very successful in point of funds received. This was the first affair of the kind held at the school and the teachers and students are much pleased at the results obtained.

IN THE COURT OF JUDGE W. J. SMITH

Grist of Justice as Ground Out in the Local Township Court.

Edward Ground was arraigned in the local court Wednesday on a charge of rape. Ground is the man for whom Daly City officers have been on the lookout for some weeks, following the assault on Mrs. A. Berghagen at midnight of November 21st. Emil Novak, the leader of the gang that committed the assault, is now in the county jail at Redwood City charged with assault to commit murder. Ground was arrested last Sunday near Corcoran, Calif. Both Ground and Novak are held under $5000 bail.

The long agitation against the hog ranches of Colma culminated Wednesday when Dr. F. H. Smith, county health officer, filed suit against James Callan and G. Gianni for violation of county ordinance No. 266. This ordinance fixes the number of hogs to be kept in this location at four, while the complaint recites that the defendants kept more than fifty. This action was transferred here from Judge Johnson's court at Daly City.

George Moore has obtained judgment for $4.05 against I. J. Anderson on an alleged grocery bill. Both parties to the suit are residents of San Bruno, where Moore keeps a store. The judgment went by default.

E. H. Lewis of the Service Garage has filed suit against J. Donaldson for $34.50, alleged due for repair work on an automobile.

A. Giorgi, local grocer, has brought suit for $61.33 against Angelo Varalli, Pietro Ferrario, and Guitano Ferrario. This sum Giorgi claims is due on a grocery bill.

Manuel Monize has secured judgment by default against Stephen Reynolds in the sum of $75 and court costs. Monize endorsed a note with Reynolds at the Bank of South San Francisco and was then forced to pay the note.

W. J. McSweeney of San Francisco has filed suit against H. Scampini in the sum of $178.80, alleged due on a phonograph.

Goldberg, Bowen & Co. of San Francisco have filed suit against J. G. Wright and his wife, Jane Wright. The Goldberg-Bowen company first got an attachment against the Wrights in February of 1919 for an alleged grocery bill of $92.30. Later they had this attachment released, but are now suing to collect the bill.

The case of George Hawkins, local realty dealer, against David Cosgrave,

OLD-FASHIONED NEW YEAR'S EVE PLANNED

Residents of South San Francisco to Dance the Old Year Out and the New In; Everybody Invited.

South San Francisco will celebrate New Year's eve in a jollification all its own. Those citizens who usually go to the city to watch the old year out and the new one in are urged to remain here this year and help to make the home affair an overwhelming success.

The celebration is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, city trustees and many of the fraternal organizations. It is called an "Old-Fashioned New Year's Eve," but a number of events are to be introduced that are decidedly new and striking. A grand ball will be one of the features of the evening, the old year to be danced out and the new one in. Fraternal Hall will be the scene of the festivity, and the announcement has been made that there will be plenty to eat and plenty to drink. Everybody is invited to take part.

The purpose of the celebration is to secure funds for the improving of the grounds around the new city hall. If the receipts warrant it or make it possible a clock may be purchased and installed in the hall tower.

Judge Buck referred the matter to the probation officer for investigation, who will make a report on December 23d.

Those in the party were J. Holmes, G. W. King, Al Kauffmann, Dr. F. S. Dolley, and Ed Kauffmann.

Hawkins sold a house in San Bruno for Cosgrave and claims he never received the full amount of his commission. The payment for a sidewalk along the property is involved in the case.

PAVING DAMAGE FROM TRUCKS DISCUSSED

SUPERVISORS AGAIN DISCUSS HARM DONE TO HIGHWAYS BY OVERLOADED TRUCKS; ACTION MAY BE TAKEN NEXT MEETING.

The board of county supervisors met in regular session at Redwood City Monday. There was little of a striking nature brought out at the meeting.

The board took up with District Attorney Swart the matter of changing the present county ordinance governing the weight of loads carried on trucks on the highways of the county. The members were all of the opinion that some changes should be made if the highways are to be saved from destruction. Supervisor Thompson said the trailers, allowed a load of seven tons, including the weight of the vehicle, are doing more damage than trucks themselves, and argued that the weights allowed the trailers should be cut down.

District Attorney Swart suggested there should be a difference in the weight allowed to be carried on vehicles with steel tires and those with rubber tires. He thought that 500 or 550 pounds to the surface-bearing inch of tire would be about right for the proposed ordinance.

Supervisor Hickey suggested that the board write the Motor Vehicle Conference and explain that San Mateo county has a number of macadam roads that won't stand the heavy traffic that the concrete roads would, and that this situation should be taken into consideration in endeavoring to form a uniform vehicle law.

Following considerable more discussion, it was decided to continue the matter until the next meeting of the board, on Monday, December 20th, when it is proposed to take some definite action with regard to drafting the new traffic ordinance.

A communication was received from Howard Harrison of San Francisco, asking for information in regard to the improvement of Hill street from Washington to Market streets in the town of Colma. On motion of Supervisor Hickey, seconded by Supervisor Thompson, the matter was referred to the supervisor in the First township, who was given full power to act, Mrs. Nash, the clerk of the board, being directed to answer the communication and notify Harrison to the above effect.

The regular monthly claims were approved by the finance committee and ordered paid.

Important Notice!

In Computing Interest on savings accounts, we have adopted the method used by the Associated Savings Banks of San Francisco.

The Rules.

For the purpose of computing interest, the year is divided into four calendar quarters—January 1 to March 31, April 1 to June 30, July 1 to September 30, and October 1 to December 31. On deposits made during the first ten days of each quarter, interest is allowed from the first day of the quarter. Deposits made after the tenth day of each quarter must wait until the first of the next quarter before drawing interest. On deposits withdrawn, interest is forfeited for the quarter during which they are withdrawn.

Interest is payable semi-annually on July 1 and January 1. Where an account is closed before dividend date, no interest is allowed for the period since January 1 or July 1 last preceding.

Withdrawals are charged first against most recent deposits and, when these have been exhausted, then against the interest-bearing balance on hand at the first of the quarter. This is known as the quarterly method because interest accrues quarterly, though payable semi-annually. It is also known as the Eastern method, because with slight modification it is generally used by the Eastern savings banks.

Supper was served at 6 p. m. The table was very pretty with red ribbon runners, and a large Jack Horner pie in the center was in the shape of a red rose with ribbons to each plate. The guests were bidden to pull their ribbons and each found at the end a souvenir.

After supper games and music were enjoyed till a late hour. All expressed themselves as sorry they were in the last year at school. The members of the class are Misses Alma Stahl, Hilder Elmer, Lucille Strand, Bernice Holbrook, and Edith Broner; Ray Spangler, Reese Lloyd Jr., and Leo Murray.

Not so many people as usual will swear off on January 1st. The wood alcohol boys won't have to.

A Postscript About Suits

A POSTSCRIPT written to the story of suits is due just now and may be briefly written, since the story itself was not a long one this season. There has been great uniformity of styles and considerable variety in details of finishing, and the points that distinguished suits at the beginning of the season proved to be very popular, so that there has been no good reason for running after strange gods. Now that the season is over, and designers are turning their attention to spring, we are not likely to find any startling innovations in winter styles.

The two suits pictured are found among the liberal quota of fur-trimmed models that have made up a part of all representative collections. The suit at the left is one of the few that have shown themselves independent of the vogue for coats reaching almost to the knees. There are a few models that keep it company, so that it is not wholly audacious, but they are very becoming and good in style. The coat shown in the picture has emplacements of fur at each side of the front and back, with two large buttons set in the spaces between the fur pieces and a generous shawl collar. The long girdle of the material is finished at the ends with barrel-shaped ornaments made of the fur. Squirrel skins were chosen for this suit's trimming and the gray velvet turban covered with massed sprays of uncurled ostrich in gray looks well with it.

The suit at the right reveals a coat a little longer than the average, with a plain and fairly wide skirt. It is a fine model for a matronly wearer, with its straight coat and line of cloth-covered buttons from waist to neck. These buttons reappear at the sides where the coat is split, and add to the general trimness of this suit. Popular furs for suits include seal, moleskin, squirrel, short-haired fox, Australian opossum and beaver. Another feather-covered hat suggests that velvet and feathers are not outworn by anything else for wear on the street, and here a velvet-covered toque makes the background for much uncurled ostrich.

PRACTICAL RECIPES

A TASTY DISH OF MUTTON SMOTHERED IN TOMATO SAUCE

Mutton steak (a slice from the thicker portion of the leg) will serve more people when cooked in the following manner than when served plain, and is delicious. The following recipe for this dish is recommended by the Home Economics Kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture:

1½ pounds mutton steak.
1 cup bread crumbs.
1 small onion.
Poultry seasoning.

Salt.
1 can tomatoes, or 1 quart fresh tomatoes cut in slices.

Spread over the mutton steak a layer of bread crumbs mixed with the minced onion and other seasonings. Roll and tie into shape. Place in a casserole or other dish with a tightly fitting cover. Pour the tomatoes over the meat and cook very slowly in the oven or on top of the stove for three or four hours. If the tomatoes do not cover the meat, add a little boiling water.

THE VALUE OF WHOLESOME FOOD

If a child is below its proper weight after it reaches the age of 12, the chances are much against its ever becoming normal, child specialists say; yet several million American children some put the number at 5,000,000—are below weight today. Recent surveys made in different parts of the United States, both in the city and in the country, disclose the fact that 10 to 30 per cent of the school children in each community surveyed weigh at least 10 per cent less than they should. Epidemics find these underweight children easy victims, and large numbers die from contagious diseases each year that might have lived if their bodies had been in normal condition when they were exposed to the contagion.

Not Quantity, but Kind, of Food

It is not a question of the amount of food provided for the American child who is undernourished, but of the kind, as the proportion of children who are undernourished in the families of the well-to-do is about as large as that in the poorer districts. An effort is now being made by various agencies to teach children and their parents the kind of food that should be given children; and the success that is attending the effort is encouraging. The thing stressed most in these campaigns is that children must have plenty of milk. Give an abundance of that food, and you have gone a long way in giving a child his chance for health. A quart of milk a day for every child is not too much, say nutrition specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, for milk helps a child to grow, to keep well, and to build up a strong, vigorous body.

Milk, being a liquid, is sometimes classed with water, tea, and coffee, simply as a beverage, by those who do not understand its value as food. This is a great mistake. If all the water were to be driven from a quart of tea or coffee, almost nothing would be left, and the little that remained would have practically no value as food. If, on the other hand, the water were driven from a quart of whole milk, there would be left about half a cupful of the very best food substances, including butter fat, and a kind of sugar not so sweet as granulated sugar and known as "milk sugar," together with other materials needed to make muscles, bones, teeth, and other parts of the body. All these valuable food substances are ordinarily either dissolved or floating in the water of milk. Milk is also very important for providing the growth-promoting substance, or vitamin, called fat-soluble. Apparently nothing can serve so well as milk as a basis for the diet of a healthy child.

Good whole milk is desirable, but if a mother is obliged to choose between clean milk and rich milk, she had better take the clean milk. Best of all, of course, is clean whole milk, but if that can not be had it is better to use clean fresh skim milk than dirty or questionable whole milk. A quart of skim milk, even separator skim milk, contains about a third of a cupful of solid food, which is nearly all there was in the whole milk, except the butter fat. In feeding skim milk, however, it is necessary to make up for the missing butter fat by giving the child plenty of butter to eat. If it is absolutely impossible to get fresh milk, then condensed, powdered, or evaporated milk may be used.

Contains Much Lime

Compared with most other foods, milk contains much lime, but very little iron. Spinach and other green vegetables and egg yolks, on the other hand, are very rich in iron. This is one reason why combinations of egg yolks and milk and of vegetables and milk should be given a child.

When milk is given to babies the chill is usually taken from it, and it is safe to do this for all young children. When milk is used as a drink it should be sipped, not gulped down.

In this country it's "Who's Who?" but in Central Europe it's "Vitch's Vitch?"—Belzoni (Miss.) Banner.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY AT Y. M. C. A.

The members of St. Paul's Methodist Church Sunday school will hold a Christmas party at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Wednesday evening, December 22d. All the Sunday school children, their parents and friends are cordially invited to attend.

LOCAL BASKETBALL TEAM DEFEATS COGSWELL PLAYERS

The local Y. M. C. A. basketball quintet defeated the fast Cogswell unlimited team by a score of 21 to 14 on the local high school court last Friday evening. Fast work and accurate basket shooting by Holt and Carden coupled with excellent guarding by Sani, helped much to put the visitors on the short end of the score. This was the first game played by the local boys, who have been practicing Tuesday and Friday evenings for some two months past. More games are to be played in the near future, as the season is now getting under full sway.

AMERICAN WOMEN DOING FULL SHARE FOR THE COUNTRY

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Wife of Republican Nominee, Praises
Her Sex.

DISCUSSES HIGH LIVING COSTS

Declares in an Interview That Present High Prices Can Be Reduced by Votes.

By Estelline Bennett.

Mrs. Coolidge sat in a day coach on a slow local train between Boston and Northampton and talked about her husband, her children, the high cost of living and the domestic problem. The conductor and the brakeman stopped as they went through the car to talk to her. She had made friends with them in her frequent journeys back and forth to keep in touch with her children in school in Northampton and her husband at his duties in the state capital. She knitted diligently as she talked. During those trips she knits all the winter stockings and sweaters for her two boys—John, aged fourteen, and Calvin, twelve.

"Too many people are afraid of work," she thinks is the fundamental reason for the high cost of living and the much discussed domestic problem.

"I think the only thing the women of the country can do now," she said, with the quiet conviction of one who has thought it all out, "is to vote for the men whom they think will make the right laws and see that they are enforced. They have done all they can in the home. I think the reason there is so much sugar on hand now is because people are doing without it in their homes."

Women Have Done Their Share.
"American women have done, and still are doing, their full share. They have sacrificed and saved and substituted and made over. But that isn't enough. They'll have to vote the high cost of living down."

"Here in New England, where it is a little hard for us to give up pie," she laughed at the tradition that has become a joke, "we have learned to use all kinds of cheaper substitutes for butter and lard, and in my own household we have experimented with different fruit combinations to find something we like and that will take the least sugar. Apples must be tart to make good pies, but we have found that blueberries take less sugar and the combination of apples and blueberries, half and half, is delicious, requires less sweetening than apples and has more character than the blueberries alone."

Knows No Domestic Problems.

The domestic problem, which is closing homes all over the country and increasing the hotel population, is something of which Mrs. Coolidge thinks she has no personal, practical knowledge. She never keeps but one maid and she never has been without one. In the fifteen years of her married life she has had only two. The first one she inherited with the furnished house into which she and Mr. Coolidge moved when they were married and took with her when she moved. The second came when the first left to go and live with her sister.

There must be a reason for their staying, it was suggested to Mrs. Coolidge, and she thought possibly there were several. She thought the type of maid had something to do with it. Her's both have been American women old enough to have a sense of responsibility to their work and intelligent enough to respond to reasonable courteous treatment.

"A good many women who keep only one maid have trouble in their households because both mistress and maid, but chiefly the mistress, are afraid of work. A woman expects one maid to do the cooking and scrubbing and everything else and still be dressed up in black dress with white cap and apron, ready to answer the doorbell any minute. It isn't humanly possible. I always answer my doorbell myself. I do it for two reasons. In the first place, there is no one else, and, in the second, I like to greet my friends at the door myself."

Have Home Orchestra.

Mrs. Coolidge is of medium height, with brown hair, hazel eyes that hold a good deal of merriment and a very quick sense of humor. At home she and her children have a little orchestra. Mrs. Coolidge plays the piano. John the violin, and Calvin, after considerable discussion, in which he favored a bass drum, compromised on a banjo-mandolin. They play hymns and war songs usually—the hymns they learn in the Congregational church and Sunday School of Northampton. They avoid difficult and unfamiliar music because the object of the orchestra is entirely recreational and not educational. That is a part of Mrs. Coolidge's educational policy—that children should work when they work and play when they play and keep the two separate. That was why she sent her boys to the public schools of Northampton when they were five years old.

Every morning when she is in Northampton, Mrs. Coolidge takes her Boston bag and goes to market. If the neighbor next door is going Mrs. Coolidge goes with her in the car. Otherwise she walks. She has no domestic policy. She buys, she says, "what the family need and can afford."

Oxygen, 4 per cent Kerosene Vapor.

No Soot---No Smoke---No Ashes to Empty

Makes any Stove a Gas Stove

Do not confuse this Gas Maker with ordinary oil burners on the market that roar and make a smoky flame. This Gas Maker makes a perfect blue flame at any degree of heat.

The MANNING-GAS MAKER is placed in the fire box of the stove. The hollow feed wire can be made any length so that the tank can be placed anywhere most convenient. There is a connection brazed onto each end of the hollow wire, one end of which is attached to the Manning Gas Maker in the stove by conducting the wire into the stove through any opening, preferably the lower door underneath the fire box. The wire is then carried back under the stove and to the tank and the attachment made thereto, the only tools necessary being a pair of pliers to tighten the joints.

Regarding the quantity of fuel required in ordinary domestic use of the MANNING GAS MAKER, a gallon of oil will burn from 4 to 8 hours or more, according to attention and care bestowed by operator. Some obtain better results in the economy tests than do others; ex-

THEY LIKED THE BIG ENTERPRISE SPECIAL

The Enterprise big city hall dedication special edition has been exceedingly well received everywhere it has gone. Many complimentary notices have been received from different and widespread sources. The Enterprise values most highly the kindly remarks from the papers of San Mateo county, most of which have published notices calling attention to the edition. Some clippings from these follow:

The Publishers' Auxiliary, a journal published for editors and publishers, in its issue of December 11th made the following note:

"The South San Francisco Enterprise sent a City Hall Dedication special to readers November 26th in honor of the opening of the new city hall. Twenty pages of clear-cut, well-illustrated material, printed on a special book, together with a large number of well-displayed ads make the issue one to be remembered. The issue also marks the closing of the first quarter century of business."

SOUTH S. F. ENTERPRISE ISSUES A BIG SPECIAL CITY HALL NUMBER

(News-Leader, Nov. 29th.)

"The South San Francisco Enterprise on Friday issued a special edition in honor of the dedication of the new city hall. The management of the paper is to be congratulated on the edition, but no less so than the citizens of South San Francisco. Getting out a special edition of this character is not a small job, but the publishers of The Enterprise have done the job well, issuing a paper which will undoubtedly result in great benefit to its community.

The edition consists of twenty pages, printed on white book paper, and profusely illustrated. In it have been set forth the advantages that South San Francisco enjoys as a home city and as an industrial center, and its circulation outside of San Mateo county will be of a great benefit to the entire county.

FINE EDITION OF THE ENTERPRISE.

(Burlingame Advance, Dec. 3.)

The South San Francisco Enterprise has recently issued a special edition in honor of the dedication of the new city hall recently erected in that city. Robert Speed, editor of The Enterprise, is to be complimented on the splendid edition.

The edition consists of twenty pages, printed on white book paper and profusely illustrated.

SPLENDID SPECIAL EDITION ISSUED BY SO. S. F. PAPER

(Redwood Standard, Dec. 2.)

The South San Francisco Enterprise is to be highly commended for the splendid special edition it issued last Friday in honor of the dedication of the new city hall in that city. The edition consists of twenty pages, printed on expensive book paper, and contains a large number of illustrations, showing many of the big industries of South San Francisco, public buildings, and the homes of prominent citizens of the city. The edition is well gotten out and reflects great credit on the management of the paper.

SOUTH CITY ENTERPRISE ISSUES SPECIAL EDITION

(Times-Gazette, Dec. 4.)

Mr. Speed of the South San Francisco Enterprise is deserving of credit for his efforts in issuing a special edition in honor of the dedication of the new city hall. The typographical appearance of the edition is faultless. It is profoundly illustrated. It sets forth the advantages of that prosperous and thriving city. The citizens of South San Francisco may well feel proud of the edition. It is a credit to the city and to the enterprising editor.

(San Bruno Herald, Dec. 11th.)

During the past week we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Speed, the able editor of The Enterprise. We were given a copy of the special issue commemorating the opening of South San Francisco's new city hall, and we have no hesitancy in saying that it is a most valuable production, and one that would be so to any city in the country. Typographically it was the last word in fine printing, while the editorial and news section was most praiseworthy, and reflected most creditably on both city and publisher. It should certainly command the widest circulation, and in doing so will undoubtedly accomplish much good for our big neighbor.

C. OF C. REVIEWS WORK OF PAST YEAR

Local Organization, Now One Year Old, Holds Anniversary Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce, held Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Patrick J. Sullivan, president; Dr. F. H. Smith, first vice-president; George Clarke, second vice-president; George G. Hughes, secretary; J. T. O'Connor, treasurer, and George G. Hughes, George Clark, and Dr. F. H. Smith, executive committee.

A vote of thanks was extended to the outgoing officers, some of whom were re-elected, for their valuable services rendered during the first year's existence of the local organization.

A. S. W. Grundy, P. J. Sullivan, F. C. Russell, George Clark and other prominent members spoke at length upon the accomplishments of the past year and pointed out various defects which could be remedied during the coming year, and thus make the Chamber of Commerce a better organization than it is at present. George G. Hughes spoke on the needs of the future as regards membership, internal organization and finances. He also commended the action taken by the Parent-Teacher Association in securing the admission of San Bruno into the San Mateo union high school district, and of its untiring efforts to get the night school which is now a reality. He spoke of the needs of the evening school and urged that the Chamber of Commerce take a greater interest in this matter and co-operate with the Parent-Teacher Association in making this school the success that it should be.

R. A. McKay, a new resident and member of the organization, and G. A. Helmore, editor of the San Bruno Herald, gave personal incidents as to the power of advertising, telling their interested audience as to how they had been attracted to San Bruno through the advertising put out by the local Chamber, and urged, in closing, that an extensive advertising campaign be carried on with a view in mind to show the rest of the world just what San Bruno's many advantages are and how the same may be utilized.

During the past month the following enterprising citizens have been admitted to membership: S. Salmirs, proprietor of the Eagle Market, and Captain W. Trudal and R. A. McKay, who are jointly opening up a new grocery store in the California Bank building.

A letter of apology was ordered sent to Mrs. C. Dunlap, Laura Dunlap, and Mrs. G. A. Helmore, acknowledging the failure of the Chamber of Commerce to make use of the booth so prettily decorated for the organization by these hustling women, at the Rainbow Carnival held last Saturday. Secretary Hughes reported that a telephone, No. 39-J, had been installed in the meeting chamber as requested a month ago. This convenience will enable the secretary to keep in touch with members who fail to attend the meetings.

The meeting adjourned at a late hour after many of the members had spoken upon the progress of the organization during the past year. Many good ideas were brought out which will be of value in the near future.

RAINBOW CARNIVAL SCORES MOST STRIKING SUCCESS

The Rainbow Carnival staged under the auspices of the Community Center last Friday and Saturday evenings was a most enjoyable success. Many organizations conducted prettily decorated booths. The Parent-Teacher Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the baseball club, the center club, the Yeomen, and the fortune booths all drew large crowds of merry-makers. Dance music furnished by the Gaiety orchestra was enjoyed not only by those who danced but also other participants in the evening's gaieties. A large crowd attended, in spite of the fact that other attractions were holding forth in neighboring cities. The hearty co-operation of all organizations who conducted booths did a great deal to make the carnival the success that it was.

SAN BRUNO MACHINE TAKES TOLL OF ARMS

Edward Allen of Fifth addition owns a rather "cranky" Ford automobile. Last Monday the machine backfired when he was cranking it, and as a result he is now laid up with a broken right arm. Some time ago his brother Fred had his arm broken from the same cause. Last Friday Francis Pene had his arm severely bruised by the same machine exercising one of its privileges.

REVERE'S BELL PRESERVED

Still Hangs in King's Chapel in Boston—Was Man of Many Accomplishments.

In the belfry of King's Chapel, built when Boston was in its infancy, still hangs a bell which was cast by Paul Revere. It was his 161st bell. Besides being a bell caster, Revere was also an engraver, a goldsmith and a dentist. Rising above the modest houses in the Italian district on Hull street is the old North church, from which Revere received his signal previous to his famous midnight ride.

Christ church, the Second Episcopal church of Boston, is situated in the north end, and is an offshoot of King's Chapel. Its spire, designed and built in 1723, has served as a landmark to guide ships into the harbor.

In 1804 this spire was blown down by a great gale, and was shortened by sixteen feet. The chime of bells, now silent, which hangs in the tower, was made in 1774, in the foundry of Abel Ruddall, of Gloucester, England. Each bell has engraved upon it an inscription denoting its history. The bells were supposed to possess the power to dispel evil spirits.—Detroit News.

Never Stuck.

My neighbor boasted proudly that his car was superior to any in the country. According to him, it was always in good working order and never got stuck.

One day in early spring we passed him stuck in a mud hole not far from town.

We could not resist the temptation to call out and say, "Hey, there, are you stuck?"

Still he would not own up to it and answered: "Nope, just having a little trouble getting enough power to get out of here."

Putting it off today won't get it done tomorrow. An advertisement in this paper today will bring business tomorrow.

THE LURE OF ALASKA

Taku Glacier.

ALASKA, the land of mystery and silence, the land of the midnight sun and the Northern lights, the land of romance and gold, has a lure that draws men to it—and then draws them again and again. It is no mere legend that the North calls back those who have once lived in its snows and amidst its towering mountains and known the beauty of its summers. There may be exceptions among the great army of gold seekers who endured privations during the Klondike rush of 1896, but travel and entertainment conditions today are totally unlike those when, to quote Robert W. Service, "good men and bad men and bold" pressed into the Northland leaving their homes and their loved ones, "crying exultingly—Gold!"

There was an inadequate and inferior steamship service northward along the coast and no railroad to make easy the perils and hardships of passes, canyons and rock-fanged rapids where death was ever at the argonaut's elbow. Nowadays the traveler, leaving Victoria or Vancouver, speeds north a thousand miles to Skagway on a palatial steamship which winds in and out between picturesque islands and the mainland, and White Pass, the mighty Yukon, Miles Canyon and White Horse Rapids down which bold adventurers were whirled to safety or to death nearly a quarter of a century ago, are viewed in comfort from the windows of a railway train.

Up the Inside Channel.

The long inside channel from Vancouver to Skagway is so well guarded by innumerable islands from the storms of the Pacific that the passage is exposed to the ocean in but three short stretches which are quickly left behind. During the remainder of the trip past towering mountains and picturesque islands, gulfs and villages the ship is steaming through an endless lake, sometimes a few miles wide and then narrowing until one can almost throw a stone from the deck to either shore. At Alert Bay, the first port of call, the traveler finds himself in the land of totem poles, those huge, grotesque carvings representing the protective familiar, usually an animal, which each Indian selects for himself at his initiation into the tribe. Many of these poles are as tall as the houses before which they stand, and a close-range view discloses their weirdness of design.

Side by side with these strange totems of a passing race are salmon canneries packing the fish which are eaten throughout the world. Past Bella and through Queen Charlotte sound the ship moves northward to Prince Rupert and Port Simpson, and then enters United States' waters. Ketchikan, with the Stars and Stripes floating over it, is famed for its great salmon stream and thriving fishing industries. Farther north lies Wrangell with its many interesting totem poles, and then comes Juneau, capital of Alaska, from which the traveler can go by automobile, one of the swiftest things created by man, to the face of a great glacier, one of nature's slowest creations.

Wonderful Taku Glacier.

On Gastineau channel, close to Juneau, he can see three of the largest gold quartz mining plants in the world wrestling the yellow metal from the rocks. Near by, too, is Lynn canal, the most beautiful fiord in Alaska, and still another wonder of the Northland is mighty Taku Glacier, an astounding mass of ice one mile long and rising from the water from 200 to 300 feet. This great glacier, from whose summit huge bergs are constantly falling with a roar to the water below, is in plain view of the passing steamer. Some of these bergs, estimated to weigh 50 tons, disappear beneath the waves and reappear several times before they finally become floating islands of ice.

The trip by coast steamer ends at Skagway, once the wildest and wickedest city in the world, but now a model of propriety and known as the "Flower City of Alaska." Hard by is the grave of "Soapy Smith," whose gang of outlaws once terrorized the town before the strong hand of the law ended his career.

At Skagway the tourist goes over the famous White Pass by rail, a steel highway that is one of the great engineering feats of the world, to Carcross. At times the train glides along the side of a wall that rises hundreds of feet, while below are the dark depths of an abyss. Majestic mountains, waterfalls and flower-betwined valleys please the eye as the train climbs Tunnel mountain, and then for 27 miles the railway follows the shores of Lake Bennett. Twenty miles north of Skagway is the international boundary and here the British and United States flags fly side by side.

Atlin Lake and Llewellyn Glacier. Atlin Lake, which reflects like a huge mirror the snow-capped peaks that tower above it, is one of the scenic wonders of the North. This lake is 90 miles long and at its southern end is Llewellyn glacier, called "Big Ice" by the Indians. Out of it, apparently, rise mountain peaks which stand like huge sentinels on guard.

Continuing the trip by rail, Miles Canyon and White Horse Rapids, two historic gorges, are passed, and when the Yukon is reached, the tourist takes steamer again for a 461-mile trip on one of the world's greatest rivers to Dawson, made famous in song and story by Robert W. Service, Rex Beach, Jack London, and other writers. Dawson is still a great gold-mining center. Further north is Circle City, 80 miles south of the Arctic circle, and Fort Yukon, where the sun may be seen at midnight for nearly two weeks during June. Seven hundred miles from Dawson the Tanana river empties into the Yukon, and on the 275-mile trip up the Tanana to Fairbanks a good view is afforded, if the weather be fair, of Mount McKinley, the highest peak on this continent. All in all, the trip to "the great, big, broad land" "way up yonder," as Service calls it in the "Spell of the Yukon," is one filled with rare charm and interest.

HER BIRTHDAY

By CHRISTINE HAYES.

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mrs. Kilcaine ambled up the next door neighbor's path, sank panting into the green rocker, and appropriated a palm leaf fan from the table at her elbow. Most people in Landsend were seeking relief from the August heat on their own vine-covered porches or in the seclusion of their coolest rooms with the blinds closed. Not Mrs. Kilcaine. No weather so extreme that a social hour was not worth to her the effort involved in reaching a place where it might be had. No sun too scorching or drift too deep.

"My! That's a pretty waist you're wearing!" she declared with her first fully recovered breath.

"John gave it to me for my birthday," smiled the next door neighbor.

"Land sakes! I wish Luther was more like him. I've been married to Luther 30 years, and every one of 'em he's given me something for my birthday that I had about as much use for as that old brindle cow has for an orange sweater like Lydia Bascom's."

"The first year it was a white lace kimono to eat breakfast in. Luther liked hearty breakfasts then just as well as he does now, and when I thought of the figure I'd cut frying chops in a white lace kimono—"

Luther's so sensitive I have to pretend to like 'em, and he's so absent-minded he never thinks of 'em again.

"Yes, of course I hint about what I'd like, but land! It's no use. The year I hinted the hardest for a plaid silk waist he brought home a plaid parasol that I wouldn't be seen on the street with."

"What say? Oh, I'd exchange them in a minute, but Luther's queer that way. He just won't tell where he got them. You'd almost think he stole 'em, he hates to tell so bad."

"One year he brought home a big purple china dog. It wasn't so easy to get rid of that because he liked it himself and picked out a place for it to set, and spoke of it often. Yes, I know lots o' folks have 'em, but you never saw one like this one—ugly, my stars! I used to have nightmare about the thing. And I couldn't think of any reasonable sounding way of its getting broken, till one day Miss Hackett came to call with the twins—regular little lumps, they were. And right away she thought of a scheme."

"The dog was in the hall, so we put away everything else that was breakable, locked the doors that led into the other rooms, left one of the big smooth stones I use for doorsteps within reach, and went out into the garden leaving the twins in the hall. When we came back there was a pile of purple chips where the china dog had been before, and most of the glass was out of the window. We had made a miscalculation and stayed too long. But I put up with the broken window cheerfully, and besides it bore up my story when Luther came in."

"He was most as broken up as the dog and the window, so my conscience troubled me quite a lot, and I cooked his favorite dishes for a long time. I didn't go quite scot-free either, for the pesky purple creature had a ghost, and I used often to see it sitting back in the shadows grinning its purple grin."

"Thanks; there's nothing like orangeade in hot weather."

"And this year—my birthday's a week from today—I know just as well what he's going to give me. He's talked so much about my wearing my skirts shorter, not having 'em trail so, and the other night I saw him looking at the fashion page of a magazine, and I feel in my bones he's going to give me one of those disgraceful knee-high, waist-low evening dresses, and like as not he'll remember to notice whether I wear it, the same as he did the purple dog. If I had it filled in and lengthened it would hurt his feelings and I'm that upset about it."

Ten days later the next-door neighbor returned the call.

"I'm so mad!" snapped Mrs. Kilcaine in greeting. "Luther never give me a thing!"
